TIP
OF THE
WEEK

Solid Questions You Can Always Ask at the End of an Interview

You've applied for enough jobs to know some of most common interview questions that hiring managers ask (e.g., What are your current work duties? Why are you looking to leave your current job? What are your professional goals?). You also know that toward the end of the interview, it'll be your turn to ask anything you're wondering about when it comes to the role or the company.

Some people struggle with this portion, especially if they feel like their questions have already been answered. But, that's exactly why you should always have a few ready that are nearly impossible for the hiring manager to cover before you bring them up.

One simple strategy to making sure you have a few of those surefire options ready is to turn the spotlight back on the interviewer: Ask him the same questions he asked you.

Want to see it in action? Here you go:

Why Are You Interested in Working for This Organization?

The hiring manager wants to know your motivation behind applying for the job, and what you're hoping to get out of working there. This question probes into your ability to research the organization, its history, its mission, the industry, and what sets it apart from the competition. However, it's not just a test to see if you did your homework; it's about learning if you're more excited about the day-to-day tasks, changing sectors, rather than the on-site gym and free lunches.

Question You Should Ask Back: What Made You Decide to Work Here?

Take the opportunity to gain a better understanding of why the interviewer came on board; and more importantly, what has influenced her to stay. You'll want to work somewhere where people are motivated and driven by the mission. If the person who's already at the company doesn't seem passionate about her work, it's a red flag.

Where Do You See Yourself in Five Years?

The hiring manager's seeking a better understanding of your long-term goals. While you don't have to pledge that you'll be at the company five years from then (and please don't say, "In your job!"); you can ease the hiring manager's worries of just passing time until your big break at a company you're really excited about comes through.

Question You Should Ask Back: Where Do You See the Organization in the Next Five Years?

Does the hiring manager seem optimistic and discuss growth? Does he foresee any major changes in the industry? Is he sharing shifts for the department or the company as a whole? Or, does he seem pretty disconnected and stunned by your question or even somewhat unsure where the company where the company will be?

Can You Tell Me About a Time When You Had to Deal With a Difficult Person?

The interviewer wants to learn how you resolve conflicts. Not only is he looking for a (brief) explanation of the problem; but above all, he's looking for a glimpse into your resolution process. If you can demonstrate good use of soft skills, it'll make a much stronger impression than blaming someone else.

Question You Should Ask Back: Can You Tell Me How You Resolve Conflict on Your Team?

This is a question to pass right back to the hiring manager. If you're interviewing your prospective supervisor, you'll learn about his management style, specifically how he addresses people and teams when things go awry. So, take particular note of the details that this person provides: What kind of example does he give? How would you respond to that approach if you were part of a similar conflict?

Why Should I Hire You?

The hiring manager wants you to identify how your skills intersect with the demands and priorities of the role, as well as how they'll contribute to the organization as a whole. Come prepared with concrete reasons why you can do the job, as well as a big dose of confidence. Make it clear how your unique skill set and background will allow you to succeed in this role.

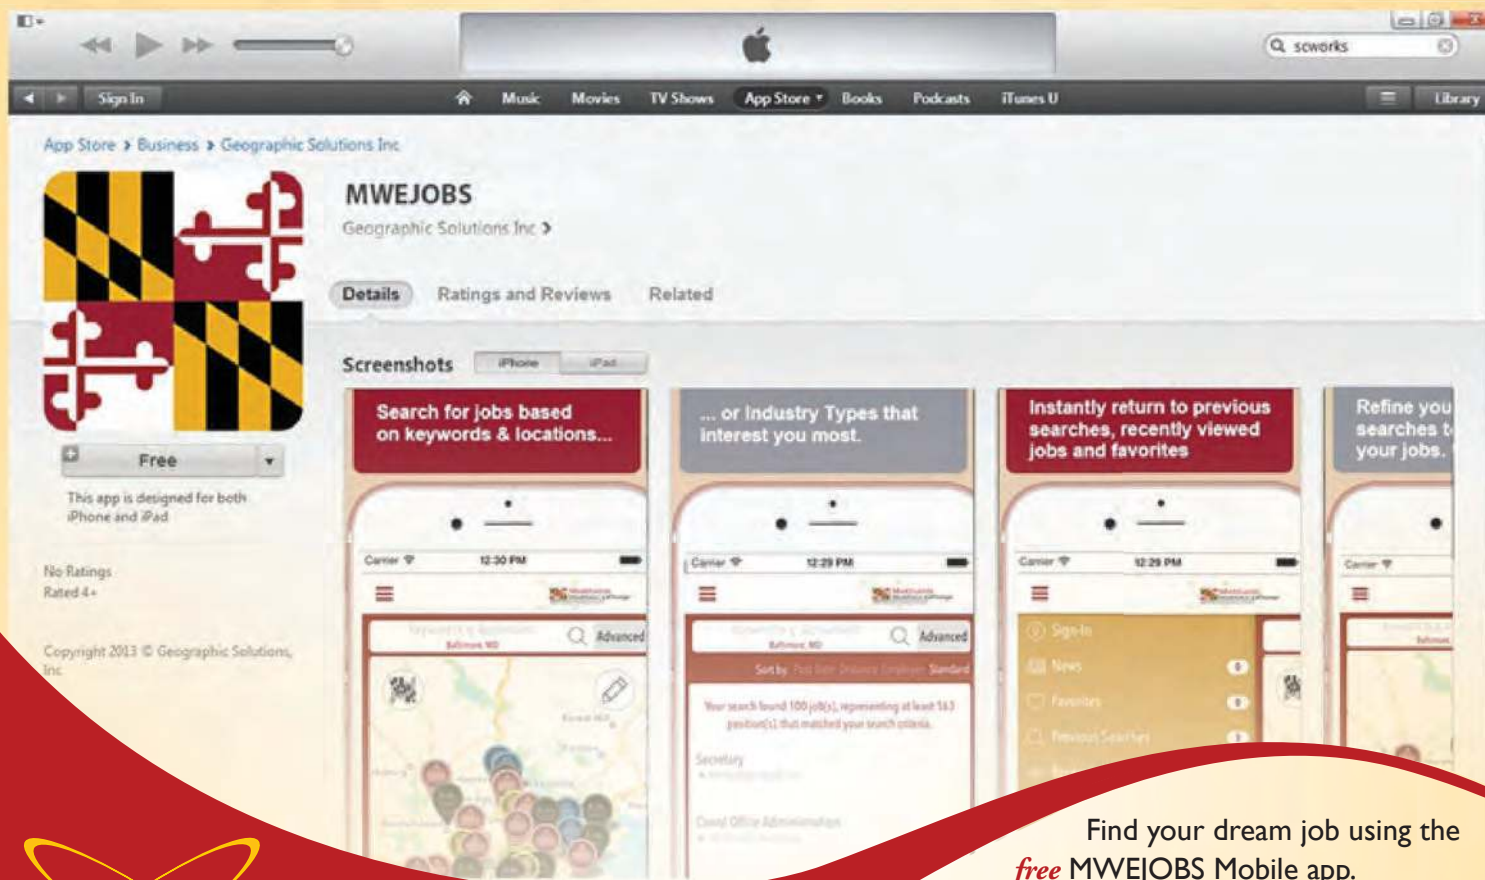

Question You Should Ask Back: Do You Have Any Hesitations About My Qualifications?

Translation: Why do you think you should hire me (or, is there something holding you back)? This is the time to find out if the hiring manager has any concerns about your candidacy. And if she shares any, be sure to address them! This shows that you aren't afraid to ask tough questions, that you're confident in yourself, and that you don't mind constructive criticism.

When the time comes, you should always have a list of questions ready. Strive to ask them in a way that welcomes honest, meaningful dialogue between you and the hiring manager. It'll demonstrate curiosity about the job, and help you gain insights into what working at the company is really like.

CNAs -

The future health of our community depends upon you!

The career options in healthcare are varied and exciting as the booming aging population will place an unprecedented demand on healthcare services. By 2030, each Lower Shore county will have at least 23 percent of its population made up of people 60 years old and older. (Source: Maryland Dept. of Aging)

MEDICAL

Are you ready for the challenge?

The future health of our community depends upon it!

Wor-Wic has scholarships for CNAs interested in securing stackable credentials in phlebotomy, EKG and clinical medical assistant. You must be a CNA in Maryland in good standing with the Board of Nursing with at least one year's experience. Information sessions covering eligibility, application process and scholarship awarding will be held in Room 109 of Shockley Hall on:

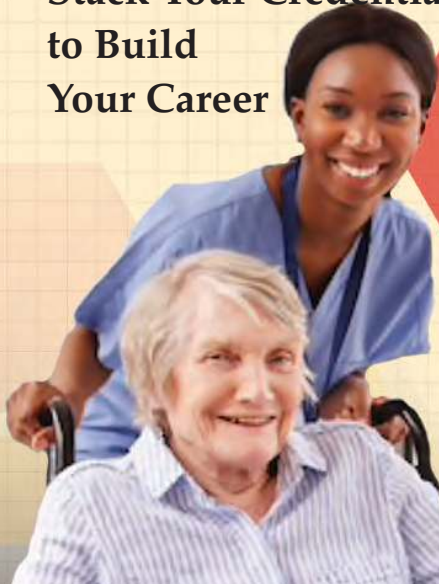

Monday, Jan. 14, 9 to 10:30 a.m.

Monday, Feb. 11, 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Monday, March 11, 3 to 4:30 p.m.

Only individuals interested in this scholarship opportunity should attend these sessions. Please arrive on time. Doors close at the start of each session and no further admittance will be allowed.

Stack Your Credentials to Build Your Career

A stackable credential is part of a sequence of credentials that can be accumulated over time to build up your qualifications and help you to move along a career pathway to potentially higher-paying jobs. (Source www.doleta.gov)

Carpentry Training

The construction industry on the Lower Eastern Shore needs workers!

Wor-Wic Community College is offering a construction training program funded by a Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation EARN Maryland grant in partnership with industry representatives, Quality Staffing Services and the Lower Shore Workforce Alliance.

For more information about course content & schedule, contact Wor-Wic at 410-334-2815 or visit their website at <http://www.worwic.edu/Academics/ContinuingEducation/CarpentryTraining.aspx>.

To be considered for the training, please contact Quality Staffing Services at 410-742-2600 or visit their website at EasternShoreJobs.com and apply for "Carpentry Training."

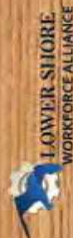

To be eligible for consideration, candidates must:

- Be a Maryland resident (Lower Shore preferred)
- Have a High School Diploma or GED (Minimum age 17)
- Be able to pass a pre-employment "5 panel" drug screen
- Display hand-arm steadiness
- Display strong near-vision to see details at close range
- Be able to recognize and solve problems
- Be able to adjust controls with precision
- Be able to lift 50 lbs. unassisted
- Possess good depth perception and manual dexterity
- Be able to purchase and wear safety equipment (e.g. safety glasses, gloves, hearing protection)
- Have reliable transportation

Basic Construction Techniques is designed to prepare students with the basic skills required to enter the construction industry.

Experience "hands-on" instruction on proper and safe use of hand and power tools. Focus on basic safety standards for construction. Review basic math & measurement as they relate to construction (mathematical functions, decimal-fraction conversion and basic geometry), reading a tape measure and print reading. Review drawing plans to determine materials and fasteners needed.

Discover the importance of work ethic from the employer's perspective. Demonstrate critical thinking and problem solving skills by working through issues related to the construction industry. Focus on construction career paths and understand how a construction team works together. Topics include floor systems, wall systems, basic stair layout, doors and door hardware, drywall installation, drywall finishing, suspended ceilings, trim (window, floor & ceiling) and cabinet installation.

Welding Training (FREE)

The welding industry is in the midst of a worker shortage that is expected to intensify as baby boomers age and the need for skilled welders grows.

Through a partnership with Arcon Welding Services and Quality Staffing Services, Wor-Wic Community College is offering a welding training program funded by the Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation EARN Maryland grant.

The next classes are projected for Jan. 22-April 23, 2019 and May 13-Aug. 14, 2019.

For information about the course content, policies, procedures and schedule, contact Wor-Wic at (410) 334-2815 or visit the website at www.worwic.edu.

To be considered for the training, please contact Quality Staffing Services at (410) 742-2600 or visit their website, easternshorejobs.com, and apply for "Welding Training."

To Be Eligible For Consideration, Candidates Must:

- Be age 17 or older
- Have a High School Diploma or GED
- Be able to pass a pre-employment "5 panel" drug screen
- Display hand-arm steadiness
- Display strong near-vision to see details at close range
- Possess good depth perception and manual dexterity
- Be able to stand, stoop, bend, reach, push, pull, sit, kneel, work on the ground and work overhead
- Work in confined spaces
- Be able to work in extremely hot, dusty and noisy environments
- Be able to work inside with fumes or outside in direct sunlight
- Be able to lift at least 50 lbs. unassisted
- Be able to adjust controls with precision
- Be able to recognize and solve problems
- Be able to work well with others and accept positive, constructive criticism that aids in growth
- Be able to supply and wear safety equipment (e.g. welding helmet, safety glasses, gloves, hearing protection, steel toe boots, jacket (100% wool, leather or cotton or hybrid of these materials) and 100% cotton long sleeve shirt; est. cost $250) for up to 7 hours per day
- Maryland resident (Lower Shore preferred)
- Be job ready
- Have reliable transportation
- Be able to support themselves for the duration of the training

Basic Arc/Fluxed Core Welding is a 455 hour course (full time for 13 weeks), designed to provide the entry level welder with the skills necessary to secure employment in the welding industry. Students will progress from basic arc/flux cored welding to the welder qualification test for structural welders. Includes basic safety for welders and an introduction to hand and power tools. Develop knowledge to work safely within industry standards and to recognize and avoid hazards.

Safely establish and utilize an oxy-fuel outfit for cutting of steel and the basics of the thermal cutting processes. Use power tools for preparation of base metals prior to welding, be able to use measuring devices and fit-up tools effectively.

Identify the AWS classification of electrodes and their application to the various welding procedures as well as the limitations of filler metals. Select the proper polarity and current requirements for various electrodes and identify the common welding processes used.

Recognize common weld discontinuities, defects and successfully inspect work to industry standards set forth in the "AWS D1.1 Structural welding code." Be aware of the requirements of a "Welder Procedure Specification." Students will be required to pass a written evaluation as well as a destructive bend test prior to seeking employment.

A welder qualification record (WQR) will be issued to successful completers. Training includes both classroom and shop instruction with the division of time being 20% class instruction and 80% shop instruction.
