How to Lose a Job in 10 Days: 7 Managers Share Their New Hire Horror Stories

People lose their jobs in 10 days or less more often than you might think. We spoke with employers who've shared what their new-hires have done to have lost their new jobs within just a 10-day period. Here, they explain how to lose a job in 10 days.

1. Lie about your experience. "I hired an assistant that seemed very promising on paper and during our interview. She explained that she knew how to use the tools I was inquiring about at an intermediate level," says Alex Tran, a digital marketing strategist with Hollingsworth. "When she started, it quickly became evident that she did not even know how to use basic Word documents. She did not know how to save or edit a document. She would ask me questions that shocked me, because she had said she understood how to use these programs at a level I assumed she was proficient in. I, unfortunately, had to let her go."

2. Hunt for other jobs while on the job. "This employee lasted all of about seven days when I discovered that, from the moment they were hired, they were looking for work and going on job interviews," says Rodger Roeser, CEO of the Eisen Agency. "The employee tried to cancel a client meeting during the work day, and when I questioned her as to why, she admitted that she had a job interview. I fired her on the spot."

3. Lie about your criminal record. "I hired a young woman who presented fantastically during her three interviews — I spent the first two days with her and then left her with the store manager for training," says Claire Pearson, a life coach. "The store manager could not stand her. They called me every day to say this woman was constantly hiding in the bathroom or the break room, and argumentative when the manager gave her corrective feedback during training. Then one day, the UPS guy came in to deliver our products and he gave us some alarming information," she says. "He told the manager that our new-hire had been convicted and gone to jail for raising money for a fake mission trip that she never took. I did a little research, and he was right. She was using a different name and had colored her hair, but she was a criminal. We fired her on the spot because she lied on her application, stating she had never been convicted of a crime."

4. Cheat on your application. "We hired this individual after she passed our writing test with flying colors during the interview process," says Matthew Ross, the co-owner and COO of RIZKNOWS and The Slumber Yard. "Needless to say, it became apparent within a couple days that the person we just hired must have cheated on their writing test. The initial work they turned out looked nothing like the writing sample they submitted. We ended up sitting the employee down after four days and asking them to explain the discrepancies. The employee didn't have much to say, and all but admitted to 'having help' with the writing sample. So, we made the decision to let her go right then and there."

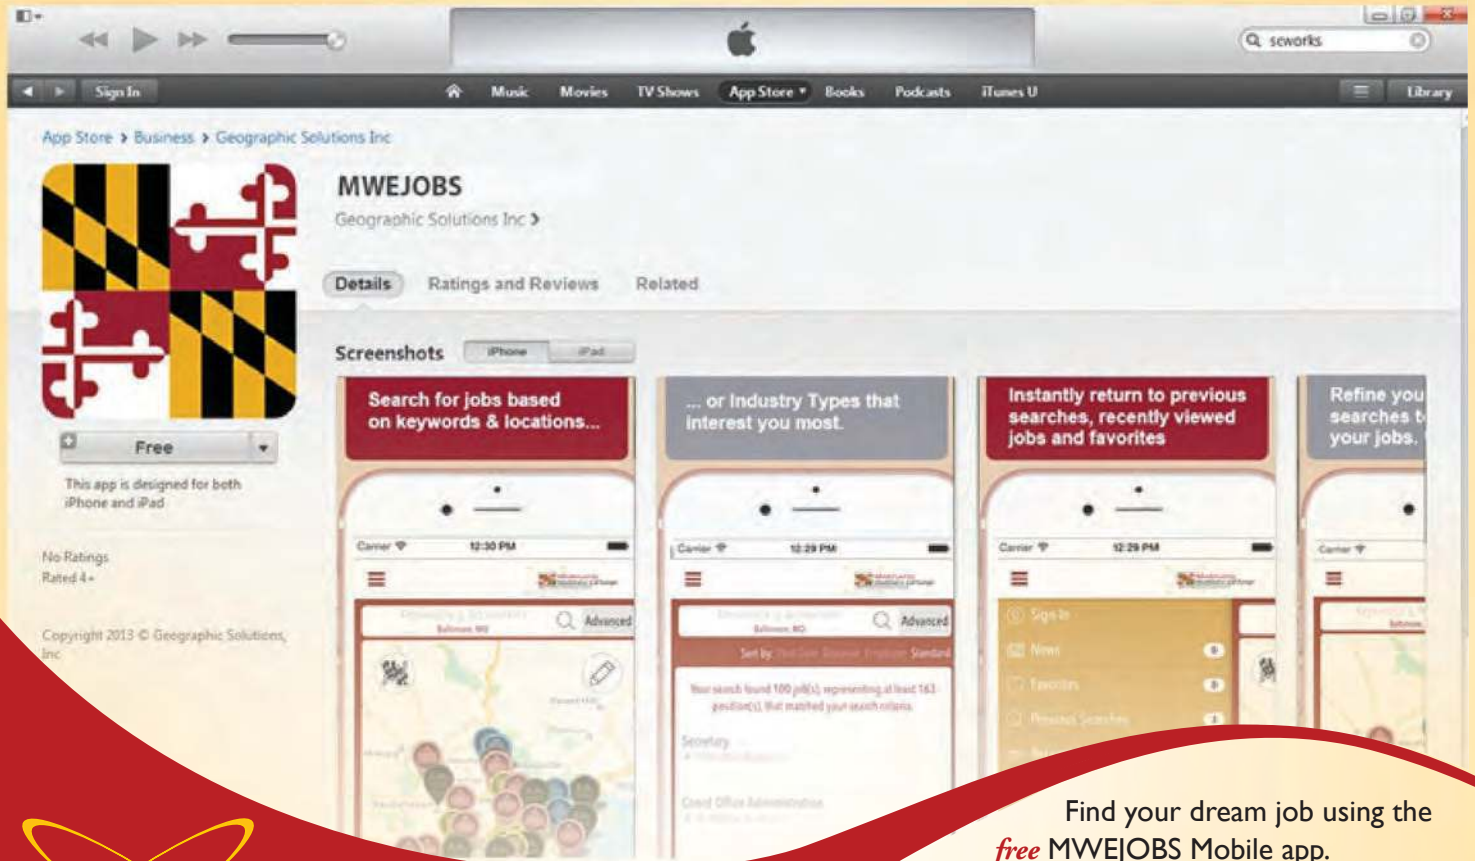

5. Dress inappropriately. "Last fall, I hired one of the best engineers I've ever had the privilege of working with, but he had a knack for wearing quirky T-shirts to the office. On his second day, he wore a shirt that said 'Deez Nutz' on it," says Zach Hendrix, co-founder of GreenPal. "Well, at first I thought, it was kind of funny; but I knew that I didn't want this sort of behavior to spread in the office, so I asked him to put something else on, though he kind of blew me off. Then, on his fourth day, he wore a shirt that looks like a Gatorade shirt with the same logo. But instead of Gatorade, it said 'Get Laid.'" Hendrix recognized that, although this engineer was talented, he wasn't going to be a good fit for the company culture, and he had to fire him on day four. "At the end of the day, you have to recognize cultural fit over talent, and make the hard decision to preserve culture over hiring people with exceptional technical talents. Cultural debt can sink your ship."

6. Show no interest in working. "We had an employee that started on a Monday and was fired by that Thursday," says Michael Satterfield. "He showed up late the first two days to work, with one excuse being that he 'just needed to take some time at Starbucks this morning to prepare for the day.'" The final straw was when the employee had asked for that Friday off, because he wanted to go to Disneyland. "Sadly, he answered all the interview questions right, said he was motivated and wanted to be a part of the team. But when the job started, he just didn't want to work."

7. Don't try to understand the business. "Over the years, I have had to fire two different salesmen hired within a week of employment for the same reason," says Yungi Chu, owner of HeadsetPlus.com. "They both were unable to learn and comprehend the product. The job requires the salesmen to listen to the customers' needs, and customize a product solution for the customer's office. The two people fired just did not have this ability for whatever reason."

Carpentry Training

The construction industry on the Lower Eastern Shore needs workers!

Wor-Wic Community College is offering a construction training program funded by a Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation EARN Maryland grant in partnership with industry representatives, Quality Staffing Services and the Lower Shore Workforce Alliance.

For more information about course content & schedule, contact Wor-Wic at 410-334-2815 or visit their website at <http://www.worwic.edu/Academics/ContinuingEducation/CarpentryTraining.aspx>.

To be considered for the training, please contact Quality Staffing Services at 410-742-2600 or visit their website at EasternShoreJobs.com and apply for "Carpentry Training."

To be eligible for consideration, candidates must:

- Be a Maryland resident (Lower Shore preferred)
- Have a High School Diploma or GED (Minimum age 17)
- Be able to pass a pre-employment "5 panel" drug screen
- Display hand-arm steadiness
- Display strong near-vision to see details at close range
- Be able to recognize and solve problems
- Be able to adjust controls with precision
- Be able to lift 50 lbs. unassisted
- Possess good depth perception and manual dexterity
- Be able to purchase and wear safety equipment (e.g. safety glasses, gloves, hearing protection)
- Have reliable transportation

Basic Construction Techniques is designed to prepare students with the basic skills required to enter the construction industry.

Experience "hands-on" instruction on proper and safe use of hand and power tools. Focus on basic safety standards for construction. Review basic math & measurement as they relate to construction (mathematical functions, decimal-fraction conversion and basic geometry), reading a tape measure and print reading. Review drawing plans to determine materials and fasteners needed.

Discover the importance of work ethic from the employer's perspective. Demonstrate critical thinking and problem solving skills by working through issues related to the construction industry. Focus on construction career paths and understand how a construction team works together. Topics include floor systems, wall systems, basic stair layout, doors and door hardware, drywall installation, drywall finishing, suspended ceilings, trim (window, floor & ceiling) and cabinet installation.

Welding Training (Free)

The welding industry is in the midst of a worker shortage that is expected to intensify as baby boomers age and the need for skilled welders grows.

Through a partnership with Arcon Welding Services, Quality Staffing Services and the Lower Shore Workforce Alliance, Wor-Wic Community College is offering a welding training program funded by the Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation EARN Maryland grant.

For information about the course, policies and procedures, contact Wor-Wic at (410) 334-2815 or visit the website at www.worwic.edu.

To be considered for the training, please contact Quality Staffing Services at (410) 742-2600 or visit their website, EasternShoreJobs.com, and apply for Welding Training.

To Be Eligible For Consideration, Candidates Must:

- Be age 17 or older
- Have a High School Diploma or GED
- Be able to pass a pre-employment "5 panel" drug screen
- Display hand-arm steadiness
- Display strong near-vision to see details at close range
- Possess good depth perception and manual dexterity
- Be able to work in extremely hot, dusty and noisy environments
- Be able to lift at least 50 lbs. unassisted
- Be able to adjust controls with precision
- Be able to recognize and solve problems
- Be able to work well with others and accept positive, constructive criticism that aids in growth
- Be able to supply and wear safety equipment (e.g. welding helmet, safety glasses, gloves, hearing protection, steel toe boots, jacket (100% wool, leather or cotton or hybrid of these materials) and 100% cotton long sleeve shirt - est. cost $250) for up to 7 hours per day.
- Maryland resident (Lower Shore preferred)
- Be job ready
- Have reliable transportation
- Be able to support themselves for the duration of the training

Basic Arc/Fluxed Core Welding is a 455 hour course (full time for 13 weeks), designed to provide the entry level welder with the skills necessary to secure employment in the welding industry. Students will progress from basic arc/flux cored welding to the welder qualification test for structural welders. Includes basic safety for welders and an introduction to hand and power tools. Develop knowledge to work safely within industry standards and to recognize and avoid hazards.

Safely establish and utilize an oxy-fuel outfit for cutting of steel and the basics of the thermal cutting processes. Use power tools for preparation of base metals prior to welding, be able to use measuring devices and fit-up tools effectively.

Identify the AWS classification of electrodes and their application to the various welding procedures as well as the limitations of filler metals. Select the proper polarity and current requirements for various electrodes and identify the common welding processes used.

Recognize common weld discontinuities, defects and successfully inspect work to industry standards set forth in the "AWS D1.1 Structural welding code." Be aware of the requirements of a "Welder Procedure Specification." Students will be required to pass a written evaluation as well as a destructive bend test prior to seeking employment.

A welder qualification record (WQR) will be issued to successful completers. Training includes both classroom and shop instruction with the division of time being 20% class instruction and 80% shop instruction.

The intent behind the welding training is to obtain welding employment.
